

EXPECT VOTE TO BE LIGHT TODAY IN BUCKS COUNTY

Little Activity Shown During The Morning at The Polls

POLLS OPEN 'TIL 9 P. M.

Chief Interest in Bristol Centers on Proposed Bond Issue of $400,000

Voters are going to the polls today to nominate candidates for one state office, Bucks County officials, and some local offices. The vote is expected to be light and little interest has been shown in the primary election in Bucks County. There are a few contests here and there throughout the county.

Interest in Bristol centers on the vote on the proposal of a $400,000 bond issue for sewer extension and improvements.

The polls opened at eight o'clock this morning and will close at nine this evening, daylight saving time.

There was very little activity at the polls during the morning hours and workers figure that most of the balloting will be done this evening. If too many voters wait until this evening to go to the polls there may be considerable congestion.

HARRISBURG, July 24—(INS)—

An estimated 30 per cent of Pennsylvania's voters will go to the polls today in local primary elections and to select a Republican and a Democrat for two posts on the State Supreme Court.

Voters in 132 political subdivisions also will participate in wet-dry local option contests.

Pennsylvanians in the armed services will be eligible to return sealed ballots in home-town contests until 10 days after the primary. Reports show only about 600 military ballots were requested by service personnel and the disinterest in off-year voting undoubtedly will be apparent when civilians go to the polls.

Voting booths will be open from 8 a. m. (EDT) until 9 p. m. (EDT). Nominations for the $33,000-a-year Supreme Court posts will be tantamount to election in November. A provision of the Constitution covering the manner for filling two seats on the appellate bench makes the election of a Republican and Democrat certain.

Republicans have slated without opposition incumbent Justice T. McKee Chidsey, a former State Attorney General from Easton, for a 21-year term.

Democrats will have to decide between incumbent Justice Grover C. Ladner, a former Philadelphia judge, and Allegheny County Common Pleas Judge Michael A. Musmanno, of McKees Rocks. Ladner has organization support while Musmanno has no support.

Temporary Causeways To Be Built for Test Bores

About a half-mile and also about a mile below Biles Island on the Pennsylvania side of the Delaware river, temporary earth causeways will be built for test borings. It is announced. This is in connection with construction of the plant of the U. S. Steel Co. in Falls township, it is said.

The Army Corps of Engineers issued a warning to boatmen to watch for the construction as a protection to their craft as well as to avoid damage to the operation itself. Ranney Method Water Supplies Inc. is in charge.

THE WAR

TOKYO — A Superfort bombing of a major hub in the Red-used road to the "Armistice City" of Kaesong lent timely new emphasis today to Allied air power on the eve of tomorrow's resumption of the deadlocked Korean truce conference. The American B-29s hammered Sariwon in four waves, a few hours after the Pyongyang radio intimated that the Communist delegates would again insist on discussing the withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea.

The Allies have refused to put that topic on the agenda. Sariwon is 35 miles south of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, and 42 miles northwest of Kaesong where the recessed cease-fire talks are scheduled to reopen tomorrow.

Prompt Action Saves Man Bitten by Snake

PERKASIE, July 4 — Bitten by a copper-head snake as he was cutting grass with a sickle on his lawn, John Hirschberger was rushed to a hospital for serum. Prompt action on the part of his neighbor is credited with helping save Hirschberger.

Hirschberger resides in the Rock-hill section. He thought, when he felt a sting on his thumb, that he had disturbed a nest of bees. After returning to the spot with a spray gun filled with insecticide, he saw the copper-head.

Alex Jamieson, a neighbor, promptly applied a tourniquet below the elbow, and took the victim to Grand View Hospital. A local druggist secured promise of some serum in New Britain and a record run was made for the serum.

Hirschberger has remained in the hospital for a few days.

FIGHT AGAINST POLIO

Paradoxical as it seems, infantile paralysis is on the increase in the United States, but the chances of complete recovery, or of recovery with a minimum of disability, are much greater than ever before.

This is true despite the fact that it has not been determined whether or not three known viruses cause the disease, though by the end of this year the conclusion of a three-year study may disclose whether it is safe to concentrate on these three.

The annual report of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis holds that when the number of viruses is definitely established, an important step will have been taken toward developing an agent to immunize potential victims.

The fight going on against the disease is relentless, though anything like complete control seems far distant. In 1950 there were 33,351 recorded cases of polio, which was surpassed only by the 42,336 of the year before.

In the three years 1948 to 1950, inclusive, there were 103,619 cases, as contrasted to 26,255 cases in the 1939 to 1941 period, an increase of nearly 300 per cent.

The "epidemic rate" of 20 cases to 100,000 population was exceeded last year in 22 states by this disease, which strikes from early June until late in November. Fortunately, many states are on the alert. The huge fund of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, financed by the March of Dimes, is available everywhere. Actually the fund provides aid to four out of five individuals the country over who are stricken.

In 13 years the fund has disbursed $101,000,000 on care of patients, and the willingness of the public to contribute to the March of Dimes is unabated. Many agencies are at work studying polio and its viruses, and there is reason to hope that the day will come when the causes of that disease will yield to scientific treatment, and its incidence will be no greater than that of yellow fever now.

THE PRICE OUTLOOK

New York City's widely publicized "price war" had fizzled into something sounding like a wet firecracker. No longer are stores selling appliances and men's suits for half price or aspirin for one-tenth the regular tariff. In fact, they sold very few of these items at substantial reductions.

It was a crazy publicity stunt while it lasted, but customers didn't show the interest anticipated. Those who didn't need a food chopper didn't buy one for $26 simply because it had formerly worn a $46 price tag.

Indications are increasing that by fall surplus stocks in a few lines which had accumulated on store shelves and factory warehouses will be dissipated. Output in many lines is being cut drastically as government war orders take precedence. The consensus of business opinion is that if there are no shortages by year's end, neither will there be surpluses.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.
(Copyright, 1951

Fulton Lewis, Jr., is on a reporter's tour of Europe for four weeks. During his absence guest columnists will write for him. Today's column is by J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

By John Edgar Hoover
(Director Federal Bureau of Investigation, United States Department of Justice)

WASHINGTON, July 24.—There has been considerable discussion as to the most effective way to meet the threat which the Communist Party, USA, presents to the welfare and security of the United States. Many suggestions have been proposed covering a wide range of counteraction—from the one extreme of unprecedented action to the other extreme of passive toleration.

While the details of the basic philosophy of Communism may not be understood by many citizens, there has developed in this country during the past few years, as a result of the prosecutions by the Justice Department of the Communist Party leaders and the exposure of the Party's activities, a healthy consciousness of the perils of the conspiracy which Communism represents and a growing demand by the public that something be done to neutralize this threat.

With Communism we are dealing with fanaticism in the extreme. The Communist Party, USA, is comparatively small in the actual number of members, but each member is a zealot and he goes about the job of promoting Communism with such unrelenting zeal that the efforts of a few bear the results of many. The very philosophy he propounds teaches that the end justifies the means—even if it is by lying, cheating and deceiving to further the Communist cause.

The question has been raised—can the United States hope to successfully meet this type of attack through established democratic procedures?

I am convinced that it can. The Federal Bureau of Investigation, as part of its assigned responsibility, has closely followed the activities of the Communist apparatus over a period of years. We have watched its zigzag course in and around each national issue. We have observed it take up cause after cause and cast them aside as soon as their exploitation values were spent. We have followed the activities of its leaders and those who infiltrated into critical areas of our national life. And I am still convinced that Communism cannot hope to contend against the aroused and alerted forces of democracy.

I believe that two courses of action recommend themselves to us—education of the public to the true nature and aims of Communism and vigorous prosecution of violations of our laws by Communists. Progress has already been made in both of these.

The press of the nation has done and is doing a magnificent job in enlightening the public—making it possible for the citizens to know and understand the true character of Communism. Once it is seen in its naked ugliness, no one will again be deceived by its gaudy wrappings or misled by its falsehood and sham. It is imperative, I believe, that every loyal American acquire this understanding.

Prosecution by the Justice Department of the Communist Party leaders, its deportation program, its prosecution of espionage agents and other measures have been a body blow to the progress of Communism in the United States.

We have seen its membership start to dwindle as the half-hearted and the undecided were shaken from its ranks. We have seen the Communist apparatus tighten its own security with growing alarm as weaknesses were exposed which it never dreamed existed. We have seen many of its sources of financial support begin to dry up as the beguiled and misled "angels" had their eyes opened and they realized how they were being played for "suckers." We have watched these things as they occurred and we know that they have been brought about by the operation of democratic processes. But the battle has by no means been won, it has merely been joined.

Today we are contending with the hard core of the Communist Party. We know that in the fight it will wage, no holds will be barred. For them the decision has been made. It will be hand and claw, fist and tooth—the frenzied assault of a desperate but coldly determined group of fanatics.

With an understanding of Communism's true nature and a determination that its every transgression of the laws of our society will be met with vigorous prosecution, I think that everyone of us can be confident that this threat will be turned back and in the process of doing it we will not only give added dignity to the due process of law, but we will strengthen our democracy to meet other tests which may come in the future.

Child's Share of Home Tasks

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

YESTERDAY we saw the need of better educational opportunities for gifted children and youth, and suggested that these children also need more training in responsibility at home and school than most of them are getting. As you know, the smarter the child, the more readily he may find ways to escape doing what he doesn't feel like doing.

Of course, you may have read and heard much on letting children have responsibility. But nearly always this advice concerns letting them do the many things they want to do that they can do well, even when their parents and other adults usually suppose they can't. There are promising opportunities in this direction, such as allowing and encouraging a boy or girl, no older than ten or twelve, to plan and prepare an occasional meal for the family, even doing all the related shopping; to choose part of his own clothes and own room furniture; and to take scores of other responsibilities at home. At school, also, more and more children are set to do all sorts of things on their own, leading a group in some activity, serving as chairman of a program, and so on.

Boreome Tasks
But in any home there are many responsibilities which the child of school age could do well but would rather not do. They may be boreome and their doing may interfere with play, as making beds, washing dishes, tidying a room. So, also, at school many jobs are not glamorous, such as being a stage helper behind the curtain, appearing regularly and promptly at a rehearsal out of school hours, bringing to school from home materials needed for a class enterprise, clearing up after a school party, or mastering a few facts or symbols by rote. You rarely read about the need of any child (least of all the very bright child) to have constant practice in doing at home and school some of the necessary jobs, sometimes drudgeries, which are not attractive to him. In the heyday of ultra-progressive education, some gifted children were sent to country day schools which set practically no conformities or requirements—the very worst kind of school, perhaps, for most of these children. Many less gifted children might get more good from such schools.

Share of Work
Mrs. Myers and I say in our recent book, "Homes Build Persons": How can any child, sound in body, acquire good moral growth and education who does not learn to do his full share of the work about the home? How can he gain a wholesome respect, not to mention gratitude and esteem, for a parent who is his slave?

Now the very bright child is usually harder to bring up in sharing in home responsibilities than the average or duller child. Yet just because of his precocity he should have more opportunities in later life to shoulder large responsibilities. Not having adequate practice in his earlier years in overcoming resistances and in driving himself to do what he might prefer to escape doing, how poor has been his education for the greatest usefulness.

It might be better to have only average mental ability with adequate training in responsibility, than to be a gifted person lacking in responsibility. A few of the smartest people of the world today, who always seek the easy way regardless of its social value, are menaces to mankind.

Musmanno, who ran for Lieutenant-Governor on the defeated Democratic ticket last fall, also has complained that Ladner's endorsement by the Democratic Policy Committee contravenes party rules.

Voting is expected to favor organization candidates in most local elections as well as for the Democratic Party's assured high court post.

Turnouts across Pennsylvania undoubtedly will reflect the degree of interest in local contests.

Mayors and row office-seekers will be nominated in 28 third class cities and in Philadelphia. Pennsylvania's chief city, Sheriffs and County Commissioners will be nominated in 38 counties while 29 other counties will concentrate on Commissioners and other officers.

Sixteen of the 28 third class cities are controlled by Republicans while Democrats rule the other 12. Primary fights in Philadelphia, Dauphin and Allegheny Counties highlight an otherwise drab election picture.

In Philadelphia, Baptist Minister Daniel A. Poling, a Prohibition Party candidate for Ohio Governor 29 years ago, is a favorite to win the GOP Mayoralty nomination from Walter P. Miller, Jr., backed by Independent Republicans. The winner will meet the victor of the Democratic Mayoralty contest between City Controller Joseph S. Clark and former City Solicitor Joseph Sharfstein. The Mayoralty fight highlights the battle for other city-county posts in Philadelphia.

O God, our Lord and our Father, the creator of all mankind and the preserver of them that call upon Thee in faith and love; we humbly beseech Thee to look down upon those nations now engaged in peace conference. Reckon not against Thy people their many iniquities, but guide in thought and spirit those who are charged with the responsibility and destiny of many nations these perilous days. Remove from the hearts and minds of men all occasions and causes of war—selfishness, hatred, and vengeance; and in Thy good Providence put in the hearts and minds of men a recognition of the true values in life—unselfishness, love and forgiveness. AUTO BOYS DROP INTO 3RD PLACE; LOSE TO KAISER

The Auto Boys ten dropped into third place in the Bristol Suburban Softball League last evening as it was swamped by the Kaiser Metal Products team, 9-2, on Memorial field.

The Kaiser victory tightened the fight for first place in the loop. Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company is leading the group with 11 and 6, 13 points more than the second place Second Ward team. Auto Boys is one-half game away from the leaders, while Kaiser Metal is in fourth position, two games away from third place.

Lack of pitching spelled the defeat for the Mill streeters. The automobile workers piled up seven runs in the third frame to clinch the triumph, after taking a 1-0 lead in the first. In all, the Kaisermen pounded Leon Plavin and Jim Capucci for 12 hits. Joe Roe led the batters with a double and a pair of singles.

Paul Paolillo did a fine job on the hill for the winners, limiting Auto Boys to three scattered hits. His wildness in the fourth inning prevented a shutout.

Bill Stockton for the winning team, and Vic Cauti, of Auto Boys, played fine defensive ball.

HAWKS SURPRISE EAGLES; WIN, 3 TO 2

The second half race of the Bristol Boys League was tossed into a wild scramble last evening as the Hawks surprised the Eagles with a close 3-2 victory on Memorial field.

The win put the Hawks in the tie with the Eagles for first place. Franklin is in second place, one-half game away from the league leaders. A Franklin win over the Tigers this evening will make a three-way tie for first place.

Last evening's match was a hurling duel between Kowal and Bonner. However, in the final inning, Foltz went in to pitch for the Hawks and struck out three Eagles' batters. Kowal ended his six innings with 10 strikeouts while Bonner had eight.

SECOND WARD BLANKS THE 3M; GAME ENDS AT 5-0

"Chick" Stansky rolled up his twelfth mound win of the season last evening as Second Ward A. C. registered a whitewash victory over Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company, 5-0, on Conti's field. Stansky's pitching record is 12 wins and seven losses.

In blanking the scotch-tape makers, Stansky allowed but four hits and struck out eight. He walked two. Only in the third did the 3M's team collect more than one hit. Ray Pierandozzi solved Stansky for two of the four hits.

Second Ward made 11 hits off George Wallace. Geno Garabelli led the batters with three out of four with Sam Sottile getting two for four.

The Warders started off with three runs in the initial frame on hits by Rabbit Palumbo, Sottile, Garabelli and Gene Barbetta and a walk to Bert Barbetta. A triple by Mike Perrone and an error was good for another run in the second, while the final run was the result of a hit by Jim Sottile, an error, and outfield fly.

TRADITIONAL CAPE COD

HOUSES COME and houses go, but the Cape Cod cottage seems to be a style that will be popular forever, despite the new designs that keep coming from architects' drawing boards. The breezeway and attached garage are modern additions to a traditional design.

by JOAN O'SULLIVAN

HERE it is, the cottage that never goes out of style. It's the Cape Cod, of course, with a cozy charm, a spic-and-span look that's pleasing to the eye.

There are two floor plans to choose from, depending on whether you want a home with or without a basement. The living room, dining area and kitchen are arranged in a slightly different way for each of the plans, but the two bedrooms remain the same.

Without a basement, the plans provide a dining space in the living room. In addition, the breezeway entrance is in this room. The fireplace, too, is placed differently. Here it is directly opposite the entrance. Shelves are also featured in this plan. They're set up along one of the dining area walls, where they might ideally be used for storing china.

With a basement, the living room is smaller because a separate room is provided for dining. Unlike the house without a basement, this plan does not feature an entrance to the bedroom via the living room. Instead, it is necessary to go through both living and dining rooms to reach sleeping quarters.

The kitchen is slightly larger in the house without a basement. Cabinets and appliances are set along one wall. Next to the kitchen is the utility room, which houses tubs, heater and the like, and has an entrance to the back yard.

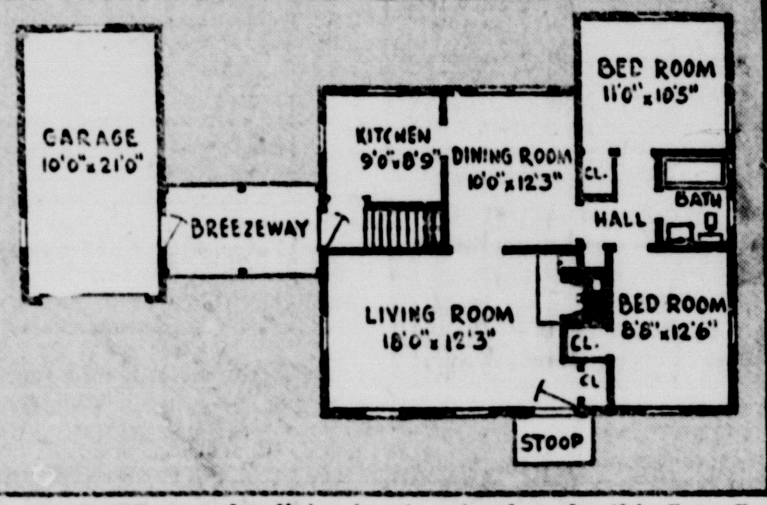

In the house with a basement, the kitchen, which is adjacent to the dining room, has an L-shaped arrangement of appliances. Here, also, are a stairway to the cellar plus a door to the breezeway and garage.

In both plans, the two bedrooms are on the right side of the house, separated by the bath. Each has a generous closet.

The garage in both plans is good-sized but, in the house without a basement, it features a two-foot wide storage unit that runs the width of the garage.

With a basement, the house comprises 20,985 cubic feet; without a basement, 16,435 cubic feet. Ceilings are 8 feet high in the living area, 7 feet high in the basement.

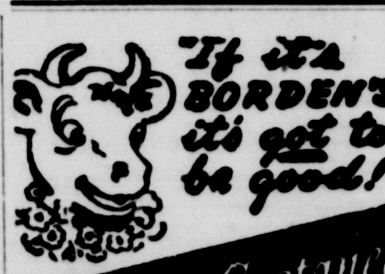

An information sheet giving sketches and diagrams, which will enable you to judge whether this is the house for you, is available. Send a self-addressed stamped envelope to this newspaper for the name and address of the firm from which this sheet may be obtained. Ask for "The Ambit."

A SEPARATE room for dining is set up in plans for this Cape Cod cottage with a basement. This makes living space a little smaller.

To arrive at a general estimate of the construction cost of this house, ascertain construction costs per cubic foot in your locality, then multiply this by the number of cubic feet given here. The result should be within 10 per cent either way of the cost.
